DEDICATED TO MORRIS HARVEY, THE MAN

As the college continues to expand and becomes The University of Charleston, the name Morris Harvey will remain an important part of the college. The Morris Harvey College of Arts and Sciences will remain because the college believes that students need a strong Liberal Arts background.

Morris Harvey kindled the flame of the Barboursville College and as a result the Board of Trustees renamed the college, Morris Harvey College.

Morris Harvey believed that "individuals held life as trustees to use it for God's glory and the good of humanity."

PABLO CRUISE

The Pablo Cruise concert was held Thursday, November 16, in the King Gymnasium. It was plagued by unforeseen problems, confusion, and adverse publicity. Internal problems were also detrimental to the concert. Far too many people tried to be experts and nobody really knew what they were doing. This added more confusion to an already confused situation. We were unable to figure the profit or deficit because of inaccurate records of our ticket sales. Following the concert, the concert's ad hoc committee met to "put the pieces back together."

Pablo Cruise was a totally positive experience for Morris Harvey College. All the negatives taught us a lesson. We learned who we can work with and what we have to work with.

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

Dr. Lieble tries to sell Dr. Voss a Pablo Cruise ticket.

Morris Harvey entered its most important year in its 90-year history. Dr. Voss came aboard and brought a whole new spirit. This new spirit will insure the future of our institution.

Our primary goal became academic excellence. "I expect the best of faculty, and the best of students" Voss stated. "We need to be proud and think of ourselves as number one. We will let people know we are here."

Dr. Plumley keeps Muriel Dressler, Peter Segal, and Perspectus editors Cathy Tarkett and Sherrie Walker amused.

Playing teams the calibre of South Carolina, Marietta, Marshall, Virginia Tech, and Louisville, the Golden Eagles baseball team had a monumental challenge during the 1979 season. Fielding a team of eleven lettermen, along with ten newcomers, the Morris Harvey squad gave every team on their spring slate a close game, maintaining the school's reputation for one of the best baseball programs around.

Balance, depth, team speed, and team hitting were all featured on the Golden Eagle roster, along with a pitching corps that boasted of experience and a desire to win. And win or lose, this year's Golden Eagle team made their presence known.

The men's crew team opened its 1979 season with a spanking new Shoenbrod, fiberglass, eight-man shell that was dubbed "Mr. Charlie" and was counted on to lead the team throughout its spring schedule. Mr. Charlie did well. The MH oarsmen defeated West Virginia University and the University of Virginia in dual races, and won their own Governor's Cup Regatta for the third consecutive year.

For the first time in three years, a women's crew team was active on Morris Harvey's campus this year. The nine-woman team was coached by MHC 1978 graduate, Paul Miller, with the watchful eye of men's crew coach Jim Buckalew. The women "stuck it out" through the rigorous training, various fund raising events, entry fees and traveling costs to place well in their first meet in Tennessee. They showed their critics that women's crew is here to stay!

The 1978 cross country team at Morris Harvey will not be remembered for the number of races they won, nor for their finish in the WVIAC championship meet, but they will be remembered. When Morris Harvey College becomes the University of Charleston, the cross country program will be eliminated from the Fall sports slate. This year's team, comprised of five young men, and their coach, John Carlson, will be remembered as the last cross country team at the school. Along the way, they earned a great deal of respect throughout the conference, finishing eighth in the conference at their last meet in November.

The Morris Harvey women's basketball team, West Virginia's first college women's basketball to play in a national tournament, ended their season in tie for seventh place in the 16-team AIAW (Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) National Women's Small College basketball tournament. At the Nationals, Morris Harvey opened with a line-up of Burk, Godcamp, Hess, Penczak, and Mays against a height-advantaged Southeastern Louisiana team. MHC won 84-81 as Penczak led with 26 points. Hess added 17, Mays 15. The Golden Eagles fell behind by as many as 13 points before cutting the deficit to seven at half-time. Niagara University, who was Morris Harvey's opponent in the second round, defeated the Golden Eagles 73-78, ending Morris Harvey's hopes for a National title. About 1,000 fans attended the Nationals including many Morris Harvey fans whom Coach Bud Francis noted, "made more noise than the rest of the crowd!"

The Morris Harvey College men's basketball team made their way into the championship game of the WVIAC Tournament before the Cinderella team of the tournament, Concord captured the crown. Concord defeated Morris Harvey 64-52. However, in the first round of play, the Golden Eagles defeated Wheeling 79-67. Emil Boatwright led the way with 20 points. A total team effort defeated Alderson-Broaddus 90-80. Rocky McFadden made five blocks and snared eight rebounds. Morris Harvey defeated the conference champs, West Virginia Wesleyan, 71-70 in the semi-final game to gain passage to the finals. The Eagles succeeded in every clutch situation coming down the stretch to upset the Bobcats. In the championship game Morris Harvey and Concord stayed even throughout the first half and Morris Harvey led 27-25 at half-time. Concord took command midway through the second half and thereafter kept control of the game. The Golden Eagles finished the season 14-17; Boatwright was the final high scorer with 15, senior Wehrmeyer had 11. Golden Eagles Rich Semeta, Emil Boatwright, and Bob Wehrmeyer were named to the 1979 WVIAC All-Tournament team.

With their best start in ten years, the 1978 Morris Harvey soccer squad seemed well on their way to a post-season playoff berth. It was not to be, however, as the Golden Eagles were forced to forfeit two of those wins due to the participation of an ineligible player. Low on morale and manpower through the remainder of the season, head coach Tom Nozica's charges struggled through a long 2-8 campaign. When all was said and done, though, there were many bright spots highlighted in this edition of MH soccer, including a first team all-conference selection for junior Benson Seisay, and all-conference recognition for seniors Mike Wilson and Paul Arcell.

"We've got a proven winner here," noted head coach Bud Francis on his women's softball program. "our players are competitors and they believe in hard work." And again in 1979, the MH women softballers showed that they were, indeed, winners. The Golden Eagle squad returned ten lettermen to the MH diamond, and despite facing teams like West Virginia University, Eastern Kentucky University, Ohio University, put together another banner season.

MEN'S TENNIS

The netters entered their season with much optimism, but the extremely difficult schedule that they faced dashed their hopes for a winning season. The tennis team took on such powerhouses as Virginia Tech, Morehead, Xavier, Ohio Wesleyan, West Virginia University, and Marshall.

In the WVIAC, however, MH was very competitive. The netters started off the conference slate with wins over Davis and Elkins, Alderson-Broadus, and West Virginia State.

Experience on the MH courts this season came from Dave Albright, 2nd singles, Karry Harmon, 4th singles, Jack Berry, 5th singles, and Tony Hughes, 6th singles. Two freshmen played key roles for the Golden Eagle effort; Dave Wenzel, 1st singles and Del Beard, 3rd singles.

The Morris Harvey women's tennis team, short-handed much of the season in terms of both manpower and experience, managed to put together a 3-8-1 overall record in 1978. Listing five freshmen on a roster of seven, the Golden Eagles played well when they had to, finishing a close fourth in the conference championship tournament at the end of the season. Head coach Rosie Monroe, in her last season at the MH helm, found a freshman sensation in Lisa Payne, a Nitro, W. Va. native who breezed through opponents on her way to the WVIAA championship at the number two singles position.

The 1978 Golden Eagle women's volleyball team has the distinction of being the most successful Fall sports squad of the year. Under the careful guidance of head coach Emma Jean Thomas the team posted 24 wins while losing only 9 games, finishing with runner-up honors at the conference championships. Touting a talented team of fifteen, the MH squad quickly earned a reputation around the league as "the team to beat" and proved that to be the case, drubbing numerous foes with their beautiful sets and deadly slams. The team's lone senior, Kim Smith, added the veteran leadership that made the squad what it was.

To add insult to injury, so-to-speak, the Morris Harvey swimmers had to cancel their final home meet ever for the blizzard that snowed them in. The meet against Bethany College would have marked the end of ten years of swimming at the college. The program is being phased out. The biggest disappointment that Coach Olson faced was the decision to drop the swimming program. As a team they will not swim in any meets for the next three years. However, they will be able to swim in invitational meets of AAU meets to qualify for national meets. The highlight of Coach Olson's years at MHC are Bob Oyler being named an All-American; also every year one of the swim team qualifies for the nationals.

10th APPALACHIAN FESTIVAL

Jack Palance was the recipient of the 1979 Gold Medallion. Mr. Palance is a well-known film and television star. His most recent achievements include his portrayal of Dracula for the television special and his role as Devil Anse Hatfield.

Grandpa Jones is best known for his comic and musical talents on the nationally syndicated program "Hee Haw." He is an accomplished musician and has devoted nearly half a century to the serious study of folk music and folk instruments.

The Appalachian Festival has attracted recipients of the Nobel Prize, the Pulitzer Prize, and the Emmy. 1979 marked the 10th Anniversary Year of the Appalachian Festival. Festival Director and Founder, Dr. William Plumley, says: "This anniversary event is as exciting as any of the luminary events that we have produced here. Each year is like a 'homecoming' for many of the participants who return." There have been literally hundreds of participants since the first Festival was delivered in February 1970, but some internationally known figures have been Will Geer, Marjoe Gortner, Pearl S. Buck, Gloria Steinem, Patricia Neal, Richard Thomas, Earl Hamner, and Kevin Tighe. This year's guests included Davis Grubb, author of Night of the Hunter, Clyde Ware, author of the movie "Hatfield and McCoy's", actor Jack Palance, television star Grandpa Jones, and Mary Lee Settle, recipient of the National Book Award. The well-known Putnam County Pickers appeared before a packed auditorium consisting mostly of students from Kanawha and Putnam County schools. Throughout the Festival, there was a Craft Show featuring rare books, apple dolls, dulcimers, crocheted caps and scarves, paintings, and other creative Appalachian handicrafts.

Muriel Miller Dressler and Rusty Wells of the Putnam County Pickers read their poetry, interspersed with the music of Wells.

John Knowles, author of A Separate Peace, participated in a panel discussion following the screening of the film version.

The Putnam County Pickers performed songs from their album, "It's About Time." The songs included "Vegetable Garden Blues" (also known as "I Love My Tomato") and "Love You've Been Hiding."

JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR

"Jesus Christ Superstar" was presented at Morris Harvey on April 13 and 14. The show was a mixture of extravaganza of sight and sound. 'Superstar' performers were greeted by a capacity crowd on opening night and the stage was set for a musical depiction of the last seven days in the life of Jesus of Nazareth. Choreographer Newton Cole can be given credit for making the show worthwhile. The time and effort invested by the dancers in the production was clearly in evidence. The orchestra, directed by Jack Pierce and assistant Greg Pakstis, was excellent throughout the show. All of the pieces were so well performed that one may have thought the original score was being played. Acting and singing were also assets to the show. Jim Wallace, a tenor soloist at St. John's Episcopal Church, even looked like Jesus with beard and white robes. Brian Diller, a guitarist who performs at area nightclubs, was dynamic and convincing as Judas Iscariot. His singing and acting abilities were highlights of the production. Judy Hennen as Mary Magdalene gave an electrifying performance and displayed her singing talent in "Everything's Alright/"I Don't Know How to Love Him." Those who missed "Jesus Christ Superstar" missed an entertaining evening of song and dance. This production was one of the best Morris Harvey has hosted.

The Art Guild explores the many fields of art through museum trips, lectures, and sharing of personal experiences. In recent years we have sponsored a trip to New York City. The program has been under the direction of Roselyn L. Freedman since 1964. In the intervening years since then, the program has been expanded to include individual speaking events. Each year members of both the debate team and Pi Kappa Delta chapter participate in tournaments throughout the Midwest, Southern, and Mid-Atlantic regions. The 1978-79 season was one of the most successful for the students and the program, with numerous trophies and other awards received.

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHARLESTON

MORRIS HARVEY COLLEGE

THE MORRIS HARVEY COLLEGE TO BECOME THE UNIVERSITY OF CHARLESTON

The change from college to university is the culmination of several months of intensive study made by the members of a new administration led by Dr. Thomas G. Voss as president. "Our aim," explains Dr. Voss, "is to revitalize the school and educate people for the year 2000. Like other institutions of higher education, we are charged with the responsibility of meeting current student needs and those of the marketplace. The world is changing, and as an educational facility, we have a duty to change with it."

The concept envisions three separate schools. There will still be a strong emphasis on liberal arts, but new programs will be offered in business and health. The name Morris Harvey will be retained in the Morris Harvey College of Arts and Sciences which includes departments of natural sciences, humanities, education and social science. Another school will be Business Administration offering accounting, marketing/management, banking/finance, secretarial science, and computer science. The third school is Health Programs offering nursing radiologic technology and medical laboratory technology.

Change has always been part of the Morris Harvey growth pattern. The private liberal arts school was founded in 1888 in Barboursville and was called the Barboursville Seminary. In 1901 it was renamed Morris Harvey College after a benefactor, and in 1935 it was relocated to Charleston into the old Kanawha County Library Building. Moving to its present site on the banks of the Kanawha River in 1947, the college now serves over 2000 students.

"Morris Harvey College came to Charleston in 1935 and has been an important part of our city ever since. Soon the college will become a university and be renamed The University of Charleston. May the new school be a source of pride to us all."

John G. Hutchinson
Mayor of Charleston

President Voss announces to the press the name change.

"All of the people connected with Morris Harvey have shown great foresight in deciding to become the University of Charleston. A strong, private university will attract students to this area, and such growth can only add to West Virginia's reputation for educational excellence."

"Congratulations to the trustees, faculty, and staff on the projected creation of the University of Charleston. For ninety years the fine institution which is now Morris Harvey College has served well the people of West Virginia and students throughout the nation. Next year it assumes a new and challenging role which will combine academic excellence and professional instruction and greatly enhance the educational opportunities of many people in the Charleston metropolitan area. You have my support and best wishes for all future success."

HARVEYAN

Dear Student Body:

As this year comes to a close, I'm happy to finish the '79 Harveyan yearbook. I know that in the past many students have been displeased with the yearbooks, but I hope that this year, this yearbook pleases more students than in the past. Despite constant obstacles such as: no photographs, no response from organizations, no copy, no photographer, and no pages, it's a miracle that any yearbook gets printed. Because of this, there are several people I want to thank for their help.

First I want to thank my assistant editors: Julie Klatzkin and Bill O'Donnell. I also want to thank Kay Harris for being our advisor. The staff's thanks also go to Pat Michael for her help. A yearbook is only as good as its photographers and for that reason I want to thank Jay Kreizer, Geralyn Maritan and Chris Schmutz for doing such a fine job as our photographers. This year I decided to identify as many photographs as possible with captions, and with that job came a problem. Who's who? Thanks to Paul Spegal, Tammy Kirby, Tim McCoy, Bob Wehrmeyer, Sue Mischler, Sherry Walker, and to anybody who hung out in the CT for help in identifying the people. I apologize if I have misspelled anyone's name. A special thanks goes to Ken Plumb for his artwork and to Julie Klatzkin for designing the cover of our yearbook. I know that not everyone is represented in this yearbook. To those people I want to apologize: Sigma Phi Epsilon (Your pictures did not develop.), other clubs whose pictures were not taken, to those clubs whose pictures were taken but do not appear in the book (Your pictures did not develop properly either.) I also want to thank Greg McCollum for all of his help with our sports section. Without his help, that section would be incomplete. Thanks to Phyllis Rowe and Anna Zikkos for all their help. (Especially when I had to contact Dallas.) I hope this yearbook pleases most of the student body, and helps to retain memories of Morris Harvey.

Stan Jenkins
